156-03 Horace Harding Expressway
Flushing, NY 11367

Dear Friends,

I am very pleased to welcome you to the Chinese Christian Herald Crusades' (CCHC) Flushing Clean Up Day. Today marks an important step in our ongoing efforts to make the community a cleaner and healthier place to live, and I hope you will join us in recognizing the determination and resolve of such an exceptional organization.

Since its inception as a religious non-profit focused on servicing Chinese immigrant communities, CCHC has demonstrated an unwavering commitment to addressing the needs of some of the most vulnerable members of our society. Its programs include career development assistance, legal consultation, domestic violence counseling, and interpretation and translation services, among many others. CCHC's holistic approach to helping and caring for families has improved the lives of countless New Yorkers. The Cleanup Flushing initiative is a natural extension of its dedication to improving our neighborhoods and advancing the wellbeing of our residents. As our vibrant, multicultural community continues to grow, it becomes ever more important for us to meet the challenges accompanying this rapid development. By attending today's event, as well as signing the month-long pledge, you have made an essential contribution to cleaner streets, less waste, and better health for all Flushing residents.

On behalf of the New York State Assembly, I offer my best wishes for a successful Flushing Clean Up Day, and congratulate the Chinese Christian Herald Crusades for its outstanding efforts.

Sincerely,

Ron Kim
